

CAPT. WILLIAM LAYTON YANCEY
Son of John and Mary Layton Yancey

As his wedding day approached, Layton Yancey sought his friend Brewer Reeves, a son of Henry and Janebel Reeves of the Parish of Southfarnham, in Essex County, Virginia. (32) Brewer Reeves now living in Rockingham, had been appointed to see that the Court House was kept in firewood and candles until December 1788, for which he was allowed 8 pounds. (75) Five days before the wedding the two friends first presented the Clerk with a note from Fanny's father signifying his approval. (31) It read: "To Mr. Henry Ewin Clerk of Rockingham. This is to Cerify you that I have Consented _____ agreed that Wm. Layton Yancey, be married to my Daughter Fanny Lewis and that you grant them a license for that End without Doubt, or Cruple, in Testimony of my consent for the above purpose I have hereunto set my hand & Seal This 10th Day of December 1788. (Signed) Tho. Lewis Witness Charles Lewis.

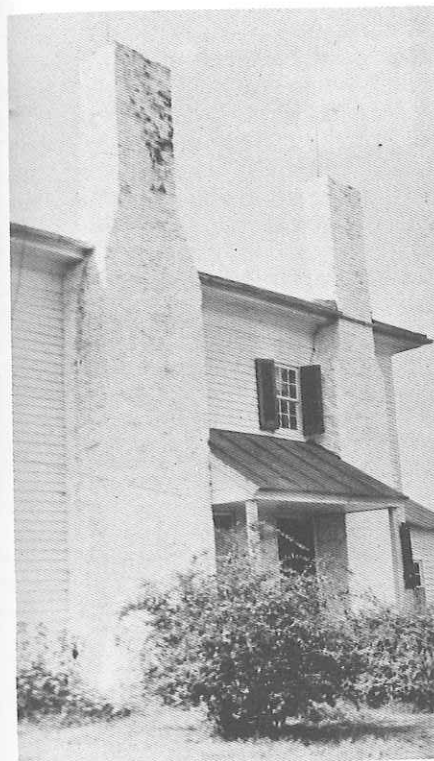

Note that if any defect in the manner or form of certifying my Consent Should want further Confirmation I will Supply in so ample a manner as you Shall desire of the same date of the above. (Signed) Tho. Lewis"

The marriage bond was not taken lightly in those days. This one said: (31) "Know all men by these presents that we Layton Yancey & Brewer Reeves are held and firmly Bound unto Edmond Randolph Esq. Governor, in the sum of fifty pounds Current Money of Virginia to the which, payment well and truly to be made and done we bind ourselves our heirs executor & Adjointly severally & finally by these presents, sealed with our seals & dated this 12th day of December 1788, This twelvth day of December seventeen hundred Eighty-Eight.

The Condition of the Above obligation is such where as the above bound Layton Yancey hath this day obtained license for marriage with Fanny Lewis Daughter, of Thomas Lewis of this County. Now if there should be no just cause or impediment to hinder or obstruct the said Marriage then the above obligation shall be void, else to remain in full force and effect in law.

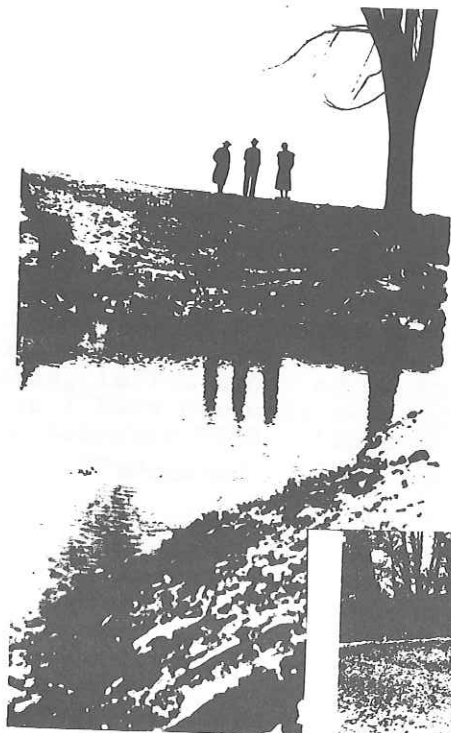

(Signed) L. Yancey, Brewer Reeves.
There were no objections.

Layton and Fanny built their first house on land she would inherit from her father. Though proof is lacking, it appears to have been a portion of the land owned by John Yancey, which Thomas Lewis probably purchased when John and Mary Yancey returned to their home in Culpeper. In his will Thomas Lewis refers to it as "Lower Lynnwood". The site which Fanny and Layton chose was high enough above the river that flood waters presented no problem. With walls two feet or two logs thick and two stories high, the house had four large rooms, two on each floor with fireplace in each, served by two massive stone chimneys.

The porch faced a very large spring which flowed into a slight depression forming a pond. It was far enough away from the house to be an ideal place, for a picnic. There was a flow of a million gallons of water a day, with a constant temperature of 52° F. (144)

As their family grew a larger house became imperative. Looking up the river they had often talked of the magnificent view and many possibilities offered by the nearby hill, the highest point around. It may have been Fanny's father, who suggested the plan for the new house. Thomas Lewis had spent a month at "Tuckahoe" with Peter Jefferson when they, with others were working on the Fairfax Line, and he admired it.

The Jeffersons had moved from their house, "Shadwell", to the Randolph house "Tuckahoe", after Peter Jefferson was appointed guardian of William Randolph's young son. Mrs. Jefferson was Jane Randolph.

Like "Tuckahoe" the new house was in the form of an H. Each of the parallel sections had its own front door facing up stream. In one section, the first floor was devoted to parlors, with handsome mantels, and ornamental plaster designs in the ceilings. Doors above opened onto a long verandah approached from an outside stairway. The other section had a long dining room with large fireplace opposite the entrance. There were also sleeping quarters above it. When completed they named the place "Hill Top".

The tract of land on which "Hill Top" was built is an additional gift from Thomas Lewis, who died in 1791. In his will written in 1787 (145) he says "I give to my son-in-law Layton Yancey, his wife, and their heirs by said Fanny, one certain tract or parcel lying, on the South East side of the Shanando River and on which the said Yancey now lives, bounded by survey thereof made by John Lincoln the fourth day of July, One thousand seven hundred and eighty-eight. The survey made by my direction and in my presence for and ... in consideration of my daughter's Portion" ... "next to the land bequeathed to Layton Yancey whereon is . . . large Spring".

"I give the lower plantation ... mentioned before at the Great Spring below Mr. Yancey's to my son Charles and his heirs." Layton later purchased this. As a result of his war service Layton was granted, more than 4000 acres, much of which was in the Kentucky or Missouri or Ohio sections of Virginia. After the war he had served as county surveyor, justice and sheriff as well as "Superintendent of Elections to be held in the District on the East side of the Peaked Mountain 17th of July 1786 for Overseer of the Poor." (141)

Fanny and Layton had ten children: Maria, Fanny, Jacob, John, Thomas, Charles, Clarissa, William, Albert, and Louisa. The latter was only four when her father died, in 1813. Maria, the oldest was to be married that same year.

Layton was buried in the family graveyard on the brow of the hill, but not visible from the house. In his will he left Fanny the house and surrounding acreage and the servants. He outlined a plan to provide an annual income of five hundred pounds for her. George Gilmer, Jacob Bear and Joseph Mauzy, were his chosen executors. As appraisors Henry Miller, Jacob Miller, Tobias McGahey and John Sellers were appointed. (10) The War of 1812 had so upset the economy, that his executors found it impossible to carry out, Layton's plan. Sometimes $50.00 was all they could provide for Fanny. The most was $267.79 in 1817 (100) So, in 1830 they asked to be replaced and Jacob Yancey and L. Graves were appointed. Jacob Yancey died in 1831 and L. Graves went west. In their place Charles Lewis Yancey, another son took charge, but with similar results.

Congress passed a bill in July of 1838, granting pensions of half pay to certain widows. Fanny Yancey now age sixty-seven applied. But a delay was caused by the mis-spelling of Layton as Leighton in her husband's war record. It was a natural mistake because those keeping the records were no doubt aware of Col. Robert Leighton Yancey, aid to Gen. Washington. When the name was corrected she was granted $400.00 a year, to commence March 4, 1836. The certificate was issued the 3rd day of July 1839, for "arrears to 4th March 1836, $1200.00, semi-annual allowance ending 4th Sept. 1839, $200.00; total $1400.00". With that the act expired. In 1843 while visiting in Stanardsville, another pension act was passed and again she applied. In January of 1844 she was again granted $400 per annum. (140) Prior to its expiration Fanny "not wanting to create a problem for the children, agreed, to a friendly suit and petition for the sale of "Hill Top" and its furnishings. Those signing the petition were "George W. Price and Fanny his wife, Thomas G. Garth and Louisa his wife, William Rodes and Clarissa, his wife Plaintiffs and Charles L. Yancey administrator."

On the advertised date "1st Monday, June 1845" Albert Yancey, John Yancey, Maria L. Graves, Thomas Yancey infant son of Thomas Yancey dec'd did not appear. So far as is known Albert didn't keep in touch with the family. Maria and her family had moved to Indiana. John and his family settled in Missouri. Robert Yancey was guardian of the interest of Thomas' son.

Among the household items put up for sale were "2 baskets of books, and others including "Stark's Justice, Va.; Smith's Geography and Atlas; Murrey's Grammar; English Reader, Va.; Rights of Women, Va.; Clerk's Magazine; Walker's Dictionary; Domestic Medicine Biographical Dictionary; Turkish History 2 vols.; and Acts of the General Assembly." In those days the possessor of books was considered wealthy. Large brass skillets were listed among the cooking utensils.

Just a few months after the sale Fanny Lewis Yancey died and was buried beside her husband at "Hill Top".

MARIA L. YANCEY

Daughter of Layton and Fanny Lewis Yancey

Soon after the death of her father, Maria married William Simeon Graves of Madison County, Virginia, son of John and Elizabeth Eddins Graves. (11) His family can be traced back to Capt. Thomas Graves who came to America from England in 1628, and settled on the James River. In 1737 a John Graves owned land in Orange County (133) on the Great Fork of the Rappahanock River adjoining land owned by Lewis Davis Yancey. So the families had known each other for several generations.

Record of permission to keep an ordinary in Rockingham County, granted to, a John Graves, in 1803. (142) may indicate that Simeon's family were living in the Shenandoah Valley when he and Maria were young.

We are not sure where Maria and Simeon lived. But Simeon inherited an undivided interest in an estate, near the present line dividing Orange and Green Counties. (11) Legend plus available facts indicate that they lived there, near Black Walnut Run and Ridge Rd..

On February 26, 1829 Simeon conveyed by deed (13), to "Layton Yancey of Rockingham, next friend of Maria L. Graves, and as guardian of the children of the said Simeon and Maria L. Graves, 375 acres of land for the use and benefit of said children, reserving to said Maria L. Graves 1/3 interest for her life." Layton, was Jacob Layton Yancey, Maria's oldest brother. In June of 1829, just four months later, Simeon wrote his will (14) in which after naming his wife and six children he specifies "One dollar apiece, neither my wife nor either of my children shall have or receive a portion of my estate, everything, to my kind and obliging friend Michael L. Eheart." He was also named executor.

One wonders whether accident or illness crippled Simeon and his friend Michael Eheart, perhaps helped to care for him. The oldest child Frances was only thirteen, John eleven, Layton seven and the three little girls even younger, so Maria had many demands upon her time and energy. Simeon died later that same year. Col. William Dulaney whose wife Sarah was Si-meon's sister, was curator of the personal estate of Simeon Graves. Evidently, his good friend, Michael Eheart was reluctant to accept the remainder of Simeon's estate for the will was not recorded until three years later, 1832 nor settled until 1835. The account of the sale shows many purchases by Layton Graves.

It was in 1835 also, that Frances Graves married James Taylor and went west. All Virginia records of the family stop at that time. So Maria and her children must have joined them. When "Hill Top" was sold and the estate of Capt. Layton Yancey finally settled a notation in ink on the estate papers says "Maria in Indiana". That was in 1845. The 1850 census shows Maria, with son Layton Graves and his family and Frances Graves Taylor, and her family, in Union County, Indiana.

Capt. Layton Yancey is known to have had many acres of land in the Ohio Section of Virginia of which Indiana was a part. Possibly Maria and her two brothers John and Jacob inherited it for they or their descendants settled there.

John, Maria's older son died at the age of twenty and is buried in the graveyard of the Brownsville M. E. Church as is Amanda Jane 1st wife of William Wood. They had a daughter, Josephine, when they divorced. He married Clarissa Graves. Her sister, Maria, married Dr. James Brown, and their brother Layton, married Mary Elwood. All marriages were performed by Rev. James Taylor, who seems to have been an itinerant minister.

There is a deed in Saline County Missouri (24) of which James Taylor was Grantor and John F. Yancey Grantee. Dr. John F. Yancey was the son of John S. Yancey a brother of Maria Yancey Graves. Obviously those who went west continued to keep in touch, though, it is not known that any of Maria's family ever returned to the Valley.

There was a Rufus Yancey Graves whom one is inclined to associate with the family. He married Eliza Lewis Gilmer, granddaughter of Fanny Lewis Yancey's sister Elizabeth. Elizabeth Lewis married Thomas Merriwether Gilmer, son of Peachy Gilmer who built "Le-the" on the Shenandoah River. Also, a Victor Graves has been mentioned as interested in Yancey history. A search for them has been fruitless.

FRANCES LAYTON YANCEY

Daughter of Layton and Fanny Lewis Yancey

Frances Layton Yancey married George William Price. Friends called him Will, but all court records are signed George W.. The Price family like the Yancey is Welsh. Although the family, of Will Price, has not been verified, it is believed that his father was Major William Price, of the Virginia Continental Line in the Revolutionary War, a friend of Capt. Layton Yancey. Perhaps the legal signature George W. was used to avoid confusion.

Someone observed that on his first will he merely made his mark. This must have been due to illness rather than lack of education, because his signature on his marriage bond is that of a gentleman and scholar. According to later observations, he may have been a lawyer. The house in which Will and Fanny lived is no longer there, but it is said to have stood near the center of Stanardsville about a hundred yards north of Main Street.

They had only one known child, Mary Jane, who married James T. Shipp, the son of John Shipp of KQCV. and his 2nd wife Elizabeth Gatewood of CLCV. James was a step-brother of Gen. Scott Shipp of V.M.I. who was a son of their father's 4th marriage. His mother Lucy Scott was from FaCV. James and Mary Jane Shipp had three children, a daughter who died when a baby, and two sons, Billy and Teenie. The baby Frances Augusta Shipp died while Mary Jane was visiting her grandmother at "Hill Top" and is buried there in the family cemetery. Four years later during another visit Mary Jane died and was buried beside her baby. Her father and mother took charge of the two boys. Billy was three and Teenie one year old, when their father decided to go west and join the gold rush. They never heard from him again. All efforts to trace him failed.

Billy, who married Annie Bettie Durette, had two daughters known as Trittie and Bertie Shipp. Older members of the family have said that these were nick names which the girls preferred but no one could recall their real names. Trittie married George Price Jr., the son of her grandfather, and his second wife, Louisa. Bertie married Albert Yancey, a grandson of William Burbridge Yancey, a brother, of Fanny Yancey Price. When William Shipp died, Trittie was twelve, and Bertie eight years old.

Later, Annie Bettie Durrett Shipp married George Stephens of Charlottesville, Virginia. They also had two daughters, Buford and Carolyn Stephens. Buford married Alvin Tandy Dulaney and had three sons, Alvin Jr., James Filmore II and Albert Stephen Dulaney. Caroline Stephens married Garland Maupin Dulaney. They had ten children, Sarah Agnes, George William, Oscar Stephen, Daniel Willard, Frances Bell, James Garland, Mary Isabel, Claude LaFayette, Charles Addison and Benjamin Nelson Dulaney.

Teenie Shipp, Billy's brother, married Julia Frensely. They lived at the top of the mountain, near Swift Run, though their land extended to the foot of the mountain. This was included, in the Shenandoah National Park and they were obliged to move. Their large brick house, which was to have been relocated, by the authorities, burned. So the family settled in Elkton near the foot of the mountain. The cemetery near the site of the original house, is still owned, and used, by the family. It was not far from their first home, to Swift Run School, where Cousin Portia Garth taught for some years. She spent those winters with Julia and Teenie, and their thirteen children. They enjoyed hearing her tell about when their father was quite a little boy, dressed in a velvet suit, with a nurse to feed him and care for him. Cousin Portia's mother Louisa Yancey Garth was a sister of Teenie's grandmother, Fanny Yancey Price.

Four of Teenie's children died quite young. Three beautiful little girls died during the diphtheria epidemic, and a son of typhoid fever. It is said that this family can be traced back to John Rolfe, and Pocohantas.

Fanny Yancey Price was still living in 1862, when Will Price made his first recorded will (15). He says in it, "I lend my wife Frances L. Price during her life or widowhood the whole of my estate both real and personal, to be enjoyed by her as her own absolutely. In case of marriage of my wife, I will and devise on the happening of such event that my estate both real and personal, so loaned to her, be divided, into two parts, one of which I give to her absolutely, the other money to be disposed of, as hereinafter provided: should my wife not marry, then in such event, I vest her with full power to devise and bequeath the money hereuntofore given her, as she thinks proper." The other half referred to was left to the sons of, "daughter Mary Jane Shipp." If none of his family survived him, he requested that his money go to Josephine Nichols and her children (Josephine was the daughter of Fanny's sister Louisa Yancey Garth); Mary Frances Harrison and her children by Dr. Peachy Harrison, (Mary Frances was the daughter of Clarissa Yancey Rodes, another sister of his wife, Fanny Price) and to William, son of Besaleal Brown (pronounced Bezeal) of Albemarle County (grandson of Bernard Brown of Brown's Cove.)

Fanny Yancey Price died after this will was written and Will Price married Louisa Willhoit, daughter of Curtiss Willhoit, probably a descendant of the immigrant Michael Willhoit of Orange County. Will and Louisa Price had a son born a month after Will died. Louisa named him for his father but called him George. George married Trittie Shipp, who died while they were living in Stanardsville. Later he married Miss Watson and moved to Ruckersville, Virginia.
